DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lange (US 6,321,212).

Lange teaches a method for providing users with financial reports over a computer network comprising the steps of: storing respective financial performance data for securities, maintaining an electronic site on the computer network to which users may connect; receiving search criteria over the network, retrieving the financial performance data identified by the search criteria; and providing at least one electronic screen to the user over the network (Figures 2,4,6,7,8 and 9C).

In the preferred embodiment (Figure 4), market database 263 stores market data from market data feed 270. The data includes data relevant for different types of contingent claims which can be traded on a particular exchange. Real-time data include data such as real-time prices, yields, index level, and other similar information (column 93, lines 25-42). The term "contingent claim" has the meaning customarily ascribed to it in the securities, trading, insurance and economics communities. "Contingent claim" includes stocks, bonds and other such securities, derivative securities, insurance contracts and reinsurance agreements, and any other financial products, instruments, contracts, assets, or liabilities whose value depends upon or reflects economic risk due to the occurrence of future, real-world events (column 7, lines 31-56).
